BEST car buying experience ever!!!! 5 5 5 5 4.2 (4202 comments) My husband told me about Carvana from a commercial announcement he heard/seen. I laughed about it and said, Yah right, there must be a hitch somewhere. A few weeks later, he raised Carvana again... curious, I decided to check it out online. The key words there were check it out. I ended up buying a vehicle a few hours later. Yeah, that's how it was. No hassle, no hidden costs or agendas. So after reviewing everything on the site, I started looking at the minivans.... I started to fall in love with minivans.... I started buying minivans.... throughout carvana. Once I locked in the one I wanted, I went through the credit process, documentation process, and pick up the date (I chose to pick up - because at this point I still felt a bit leary about the whole case. It was so simple, and so honest, and so real. Over the next 24 hours, all my submitted documents were approved and we just had two days to pick up the new van. When we arrived at the store, it's not like a dealership with many, but there were three beautiful, well-lit, very clean, bay-like showroom that your vehicle sits for you to do a full inspection of it. It was very classy. Please note, our particular location does not have the car vending machine at the moment. After passing our over check, I jumped in the car and drove it 65 miles home. She ran like a charm and I knew I had 7 days to decide if I wanted not to keep her. On day 3, even though I loved her, she didn't have all the bells and whistles I really wanted so that night I was back at the Carvana site, shopping for a replacement minivan.... it is so easy to do when it gives you results based on your financial settings.... I found the new she a few hours later. I ordered him and made the quick call explaining that I was trading and chose to have the vehicle delivered instead of going there to save time. The entire exchange process took 2 days... they stopped up to my house with my next minivan. To me, it was perfect, but I found a defect before it was even out of the truck. There was a huge bolt in the rear tire. I was so disappointed. But Carvana took care of this so surprisingly on top..... they brought it again from the truck so I could check the interior, test it, etc. We have some other things we felt should be fixed... minor things. Carvana took note of the items, and took the vehicle back on the truck, but promised me (because I really wanted it that day) they would bring it back with a new tire.... they kept their promise, three hours later she was back with a brand new tire, not one, but two brand new rear tires. And they put an extra Carvana cup in the car for me. They exchanged the minivans and the old one went and there I sat down with the new one. Smile from ear to ear. I worked with Carvana on 6 items that we thought needed repair commit to keeping the vehicle. Carvana went above and beyond. I got an estimate for repairs at a local store, Carvana approved it, and within a few weeks, all the repairs were done by Carvana and I have the perfect vehicle, no hassle, no hidden schedules. And every person I've dealt with on the phone or in person were absolutely amazing, friendly, helpful, AND JUST THE BEST!! My Carvana experience was the absolute best. I will never go back to buying a car the old-fashioned car dealership way. And ironically, we had bought our other vehicle from a dealership only 3 months before being introduced to Carvana. I will give a warning about buying a vehicle by Carvana this way.... it can be addictive. lol :-)

Yes, I still shop for Carvana cars from time to time.... I don't even need a car, I love seeing what Carvana has because it was so simple :-)

Incident Number: 18.2dbb1002.1607307525.3dcf2b5a Your car is a finely tuned machine with a lot of moving metal parts. These parts rub against and hit each other many multiple times when you have your car on. Movement and vibration create friction which then, in turn, make heat. That same heat magnified many times over causes damage to your engine. Another thing is if you do not change the oil in your car, the oil turns bad and sludges up the car's insides. If you observe the car's proper maintenance and religiously follow the prescribed PMS schedule, you will have that coveted manufacturer's maintenance diary. This document records all the times you feel the car over for maintenance and may include parts replaced and other mods. With that document, you can actually increase your car's value when the time comes to sell it. 2. Fix the and Dings Apart from having your car mechanically sound, you have to package your car to be desirable to look at. Many car buyers relate a a and the presentable car to be a good car. Do not sell your vehicle if there are significant scratches or dents, as this will immediately cause the car's resale value to fall. Give it a new coat of paint and you'll find that your investment in body repair will be profitable. 3. Keep maintenance records and documents Buyers will always be wary of the history of a used car. In the Philippines, we do not have a central database to trace the history of the car, from ownership to maintenance records. Keeping all the documentation handy with you will create a sort of diary of everything that happened to your car, maintenance work, modifications and parts purchased even the property will create a sense of assurance to the buyer that it will be worth their money by buying your car. 4. Replace tires if necessary Tires are one of your most important parts. The quality of your tyres greatly affects the overall performance, handling, comfort and behaviour of the cars. It's your vehicle's connection to the road and any imperfection is felt almost instantly. It is also a major safety concern to sell your car with broken tires. Spending on decent tires, much like body repair can add dividends to the resale value of your car. 5. Drive defensively and safely The easiest and most cost-effective way to maintain your car's resale value is to drive safely. Defensive driving is a word often thrown around that actually means so much to the resale value of the car. If you drive safely and reasonably, you can avoid collisions, it does not wear tires as much as you have the distinction of selling your car in an original and pristine state. Just like trading cards in good condition, keeping your car intact will be a major selling point for you.
